Intro

Time flies, doesn't it? I cannot believe it is already November. Before we know it, Jan 1st will be here.

The Buda Fine Arts Festival went really well! There were many people, and many caliber artists. The festival itself was superbly run, and I cannot wait to participate in next year's show. I hung 12 new pieces (see below for the list and links of new works) and several sold, which was very exciting. The entire experience was very positive! All of the artists were very supportive, and the atmosphere was upbeat! I thank those of you who came by the booth!!

I also just returned from the Baltimore/Washington CD area. Thanks go out to Peggy for allowing me to stay with her and for showing me around the DC area. It was my first time in the area, and Washington DC was really cool. I took over 500 photos in DC. I also want to thank J for letting me crash in her room and Scott for allowing me to drive the rental car in Baltimore. Their actions enabled me to stay and take photos in Baltimore. I didn't take as many photos in Baltimore as I did in DC, but I did capture a few at the Inner Harbor. As soon as I get a chance to look at them, I will post a few.

There are several upcoming art venues in which I am participating. If you get a chance to attend any, I think you will have an enjoyable time!

Until the upcoming art events, I will be working hard on more new pieces!!
